MILLENNIUM FLAME

The flame being welcomed at the end of Evensong (February 11)

The Millennium Flame was placed in the Cathedral at a special Evensong on Sunday February 11. Canon Edward Probert, the Chancellor, welcomed the Flame, carried in the ceremonial red and gold glass torch by Hospice Trustee Ceri Hurford-Jones.

The flame is now on display in St Margaret's Chapel where it will remain until March 23. Visitors are invited to light a votive candle in memory of a loved one. There is also a small display, with information about the work of the Salisbury Hospice, and at certain points of the day Hospice volunteers will be present to talk with visitors.

The Flame represents the symbol of light in darkness and as such symbolises the work of those in the Hospice who strive to improve the quality of life for patients and those close to them, at a time of bleakness and gloom.

It was originally used by Her Majesty, the Queen to light the National Beacon on Millennium night. It has since been used at many national and charitable occasions raising money for good causes. Salisbury Hospicecare Trust is the 'Keeper of the Flame' until April 23, at which point it will be handed to Marie Curie Cancer Trust.
